

ALARM

AGAIN SEIZES THE PEOPLE OF FORT DE FRANCE.

MONT PEELE MOVES RESIDENTS TO VERGE OF PANIC.

THE DESTITUTE RECEIVE RELIEF

An Abundance of Supplies for Victims of the Disaster at Least for the Present.

Fort de France, May 27.—(Bulletin.)—Another eruption of Mount Pelee began last evening. The people are alarmed and have again been moved to the verge of a panic. Great black clouds today hover over the volcano from which can be seen occasional flashes of fire.

Mt. Pelee Still Active.

Castries, Island of St. Lucia, May 27.—St. Pierre, Martinique, is no longer of interest, except to the scientist. Mt. Pelee is still active, but all within its range are dead or have fled. Fort de France is quieter after the large exodus of its inhabitants to the neighboring colonies. The Martinique sufferers have sufficient food for the present.

The St. Vincent volcano, the Soufriere, is less active. The total loss of life as a result of its eruption is finally placed at 1,700, about the original estimate. The wounded and burned number 600. Many of those in hospitals cannot recover.

More than 4,000 persons are destitute. They are receiving adequate relief. The material damage done in St. Vincent is principally to the plantations. Many of the sugar works may be restored. Sugar hogsheads are being dug out of the lava and ash heaps.

More Supplies Than Needed.

Fort de France, May 19.—(By mail.)—While the outside world was dispatching its warships and supply boats to Martinique, Deputy Governor Geurman, who was at Fort de France, dispatched the only government boat at hand, to St. Pierre to determine the extent of the disaster. A thick blanket of smoke obscured every feature of the lands for a point five miles out. The boat succeeded in picking up several persons. Two companies of infantry and a troop of cavalry were sent over the mountains. They were unable to get any farther toward St. Pierre than Viacre, a little town three miles away. The troops encountered thousands of panic stricken people hurrying toward Fort de France, streaming out of mountains and valleys.

On Thursday four companies of infantry and the native police succeeded in getting into St. Pierre from the sea. They stumbled across hundreds of dead bodies along the shore. When they attempted to investigate the city itself they were compelled to wade through thick, yellow dust ankle deep, climb over great masses of boulders, iron work and wires, and clear away thick stone walls that had been shot from their regular positions to obstruct the entrance to the town. Several bodies were found in the houses. Most of them had been burned beyond recognition.

Governor Geurmann ordered that all bodies be burned. Great quantities of kerosene were taken to St. Pierre during the succeeding three days, poured over more than 3,000 bodies and ignited.

In the harbor of Fort de France are more than 20 ships laden with supplies for the stricken people of Martinique. Very few of the supplies will be actually needed after a week, not nearly the quantity that has been offered.

HANGED

Was Murderer Wm. H. Lane This Morning for a Fiendish Crime.

Justice Was Swift.

Philadelphia, May 27.—Wm. H. Lane, the young negro murderer, who on April 1 shot and instantly killed Ella Janien, the reputed wife of Charles A. Furbish, a millionaire manufacturer and her two children Madeline, aged 11, and Eloise, aged 7 years, at their home, 632 North Fifteenth street, where Lane had been employed as coachman and butler, was hanged today at Mayamensing Prison. He collapsed several days ago but recovered his nerve and marched to the gallows without assistance and singing a hymn. The hanging occurred exactly 54 days after the commission of the crime, thus establishing a record for swift justice in Pennsylvania.

ST. LOUIS WANTS BOTH.

Chicago, May 27.—St. Louis wants both the political national conventions in 1904, as additional attractions to that city in connection with the World's Fair, to be held there that year. Letters have been sent to the members of the National committee of each party, asking their influence to bring the conventions of their respective parties to the Exposition City.

ATTENDANCE WAS SMALL.

Washington, May 27.—The House met at 11 o'clock this morning to take up the consideration of District of Columbia matters. Only 20 members were in their seats.

Snow At Grafton

Cumberland, Md., May 27.—Railroaders today report an inch of snow at Grafton, W. Va., and on the summit of the Allegheny mountains. The temperature here dropped forty degrees during the night.

THATCHER

is Today Made Defendant in a Divorce and Alimony Suit Filed at Dayton.

Dayton, O. May 27.—George W. Thatcher who has attained notoriety through his efforts to collect notes for large sums against the estate of P. P. Mast of Springfield, is made defendant in a divorce and alimony suit filed here today by his wife, Margaret Thatcher. She charges that he performed a bigamous marriage at London, England, in 1898, with Nellie Maud Watson and avers that the London wife is still living as Nellie Maud Thatcher.

Wants Exclusive Right.

Norfolk Va., May 27.—A liquor dealer of Wilmington, N. C., has offered that city $30,000 a year for the exclusive liquor privileges there. Wilmington now derives only $15,000 annually from licenses and the board of aldermen will consider the proposition at the next meeting.

"BE GOOD"

Wrote the Mother to Her Wayward Son, Ignorant of His Death by Drowning.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 27.—A letter from a heartbroken mother was opened by the police yesterday, because the wayward son to whom it was addressed is at the bottom of the Wabash river. He was drowned while swimming Saturday night. He was Arthur Hyatt, whose home is in Indianapolis, Ill., and who came to Terre Haute with Ringling's circus, but left the show here.

Judging from his mother's letter he had written home about the loss of his watch and some money. The mother's language indicates that the son was under a cloud at home and she expects him to be a "good boy." She also says that his father was fatally ill.

INVITATION FROM GERMANY

Washington, May 27.—The state department today informed the war department of the formal invitation extended by the Emperor of Germany to this government to have General Corbin, Young and General Wood represent the United States at the forthcoming German maneuvers. The invitation will be accepted.

Nothing is so bad that it couldn't be worse. We can't suffer from insomnia and nightmare at the same time.

AFFAIRS

IN SOUTH AFRICA ARE IN THE BALANCE.

NO ANNOUNCEMENT EXPECTED TODAY.

CABINET IN SESSION IN LONDON.

Arthur J. Balfour Would Not State Publicly What Terms England Had Offered the Boers.

London, May 27.—In the House of Commons today Government leader Arthur J. Balfour said it would be inconvenient to discuss the budget today, while affairs in South Africa were in the balance. It was impossible, he said, to prevent references to the peace negotiations.

The Hon. Conon O'Kelly (Nationalist, Mayo East) asked what terms had been offered the Boers. Balfour would not reply. This would seem to indicate that no announcement regarding the negotiations will be made today.

The cabinet completed its deliberations at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon. Among the matters under discussion at the meeting was a message from Earl Milner, respecting the peace negotiations. Your correspondent understands that the final decision of the Boers has not yet been received from the Boer representatives at the peace conference.

INTEREST INTENSIFYING.

London, May 27.—Interest in the deliberations of the cabinet today is intensifying in London as it is generally felt that some definite announcement regarding the South African peace negotiations will be made at an early date. It is doubtful if such an announcement will be made today as the negotiations are understood to have not yet been completed.

DELAY NOT HOPEFUL.

Pretoria, May 27.—The prevalence throughout South Africa of the optimistic feeling in regard to the peace negotiations is hardly based upon solid facts. The protraction of the conference at Vereeniging is not necessarily a hopeful sign. An obstinate minority continues to regard the resumption of hostilities as the best outcome of the present situation.

COST

Of Naval Operations in Philippines From May, 1898, to Jan., 1902, Exceeds $18,000,000.

Washington, May 27.—Naval operations in the Philippines from May 1, 1898, when Dewey entered Manila harbor to January 1, 1902, have cost the United States government $18,390,000. This amount includes the pay of officers and men and equipments, transportation and supplies. The information was today sent to the Senate by the Secretary of the Navy in response to a resolution of inquiry.

ELECTION OF SENATORS.

Washington, May 27.—In the Senate this morning Mr. Burrows as chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, announced that he was authorized to report adversely the House resolutions providing for amending the constitution so as to provide for the election of United States Senators by popular vote.

MILLIONS

Strike Would Cost Operators and Untold Thousands in Wages to the Miners.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 27.—Should the pump men and engineers strike on June 2 in the anthracite mines and the mines be abandoned for the time being, 15 per cent of the mines would be flooded. It would cost the operators $20,000,000 and the miners untold thousands in wages.

Hazleton, May 27.—A poll of the pump men in this district taken last night by the United States Mine Workers, show that a majority are in favor of striking June 2. The companies are building stockades about the mines and supplying them with bedding and provisions.

Falma, but it is understood that a program for the formal presentation of his credentials has been arranged. "Diario De La Marina" yesterday published an article in which it spoke of $13,000,000 in Cuban money having been sent to Washington by the intervening government.

Lucha explained that this was a misrepresentation, the money referred to being shipments of Spanish and French gold, which had been collected as custom dues, and also shipments against money orders. A motion was made in the House of Representatives yesterday to ask the secretary of finance for an explanation but no vote was taken on the matter.

DYING MINER

Leaves a Message to His Wife and Children—Note Was Found at Coal Creek.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 27.—A letter just found, written by the signer while dying in the Fraterville mine debris at Coalcreek, is as follows: "Dear Wife and Children: My time is come to die. I trust Jesus. He will rescue. Teach the children to love Jesus. May God bless you all, is my prayer. Bless Jesus. It is now 10 minutes to 10, and we are almost smothered. Don't know how long we will live, but if it is our time to go I hope to meet all in heaven. May God bless you all—wife and children. Good-by till we meet to part no more.

TIE UP

Chicago, May 27.—Despite the efforts of the packers to defeat the striking teamsters and send meat in freight cars to the Fulton market on the West Side, the tie up remained complete this forenoon. In the stock yards it was reported early today that one of the sons of G. F. Swift & Co. had taken the reins of one of the teams and was driving.

Philadelphia, May 27.—C. W. Ray, of Sharon, Pa., who underwent a newly discovered operation for the cure of Bright's disease, died at the Hahnemann hospital yesterday. The operation consisted of a separation of the membrane of the kidneys. Angelo Menzoli of Shamokin, heard of the discovery and came here yesterday to go under the knife. The operation will be performed on him within ten days.

SOME

LEADERS FAVOR STRADDLE ON QUESTION OF ENDORSING ADMINISTRATION OF ROOSEVELT

CHIEFLY ON THE STATE ISSUES

Did Gov. Nash Speak This Afternoon. Hot Time Over Cuban Reciprocity Plank.

Cleveland, May 27.—The Ohio State Republican convention will not open at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Governor Nash, the temporary chairman, will speak chiefly on State issues.

Nearly all of those who will direct the work and shape the policy of the Republican State convention are now in the city. Governor Nash, Secretary of State Laylin, George B. Cox and General Grosvenor were the only notables who did not reach the city yesterday, but they are here today. Comparatively few of the delegates reached Cleveland before this morning. The delegation from Cincinnati, with George B. Cox, leader in Hamilton county, at its head, came on a special train.

Senator Hanna and General Dick avoided the throng of politicians who were seeking their support for candidates for State nominations.

Congressman Beidler has arrived. Among the prominent arrivals Albert Douglass, who was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor three years ago, and who will be a candidate for the nomination next year, is here. Another prospective gubernatorial candidate is also here in the person of Congressman R. W. Taylor of the Eighteenth district.

General Dick did not return to Cleveland from Akron until shortly after noon yesterday. He discussed in detail the plans of the platform. There is one feature which will be the subject of dispute. That plank will deal with the question of tariff on Cuban industries. There is an inclination among some of the leaders to straddle on the question of openly endorsing the policy of the present administration.

COX ARRIVED THIS MORNING.

Cleveland, O., May 27.—George B. Cox, the Cincinnati ruler, and his "silent but united 85," fell off the sleepers of their special Pennsylvania train at the Union depot at 7 a. m. today. They were dressed in negligee shirts, Panama hats, with the usual complement of clothes, minus vests. There were no overcoats.

The chilly 42 degree wind of Lake Erie struck them and they grumbled loudly and long as they buttoned their coats and jammed down their Panamas. Then they made a united rush for the Hollenden and demanded something "hot and quick."

When Cox has looked over the field and decided who he will play with, he will vote the 85 delegates as he sees fit and not one will bolt or protest.

Governor Nash makes no secret of the deep interest he has in the course the convention may pursue. He wants the convention to endorse his administration generally, and specifically approve the various measures he personally advocated. His head quarters have been well filled from the time of his arrival and he has done a lot of effective mixing with the delegates.

HOT FIGHT ON PLATFORM.

Cleveland, May 27.—While it is difficult to forecast the platform to be adopted by the Ohio State Republican convention, it is generally believed this afternoon that it will follow the essentials of the platform adopted by the Indiana convention.

Cleveland, May 27.—This afternoon General Dick, speaking for Senator Hanna and his followers said they will oppose President Roosevelt's ideas on Cuban reciprocity and this plank of the platform is certain to precipitate a hot fight.

Nash's Speech.

Cleveland, O., May 27.—Governor George K. Nash, temporary chairman, confined his speech principally to state issues. He congratulated the convention upon "the reforms instituted and accomplished in the financial affairs of the state by your representatives in the general assembly." The levy upon real and personal property for the support of the state government has been reduced from $2.89 to $1.35 per $1,000. To overcome the deficiency by this reduction the governor enumerated new methods of taxation.

The temporary chairman said the last general assembly but one looked with friendly spirit upon the presence of corporations in Ohio. These corporations, said he, encounter many obstacles in this state. Therefore, the last assembly set about the work of removing these obstacles, so that the cities of the state might become more than ever before, the homes of increased industry. He referred to the double liability clause, the evil of which, he declared, has been remedied by the enactment of a law which provides that the stock of corporations shall not be listed for taxation in Ohio, where two-thirds of the property is taxed in this state in the name of the company.

Before closing the Governor branched out upon national issues. He referred to the late President McKinley, to President Roosevelt's determination to carry out McKinley's policy, and to the new Cuban republic. The Philippine question was touched upon lightly. "Our enemies," said he, "may hurl their calumnies upon our soldiers and sailors, and their anathemas upon honored representatives of our government, but they cannot dim the glory of our flag."

CRUELTY

Charged Against Officers of United States Transport Buford—War-rants Issued at Frisco.

San Francisco, May 27.—War-rants have just been issued for the arrest of Capt. K. F. Martin and Mate W. G. Harstedt, of the United States transport Buford, charged of gross cruelty preferred by B. Beskofer, third cook, who claims that he was triced up by the wrists for an hour and a half in the boiling sun and otherwise tortured and starved. Other members of the crew tell stories of cruelties inflicted by the captain.

Miss Scott Says She Met the Mayor of Elkhart, Ind.—Girl is Set Free.

Denver, Colo., May 27.—Miss Louise Scott, arrested on the complaint of Peter Turner, mayor of Elkhart, Ind., charged with the theft of a diamond ring worth $150, was released last night by order of Governor Orman, who refused to grant extradition papers.

Miss Scott says that Turner is the doctor whom she met in the course of her professional duties as a trained nurse. He persecuted her with his attentions, she says, and caused her arrest because she repulsed him. She said that Turner gave her the ring he now accuses her of stealing and she wore it for two months before leaving Elkhart.

FIGHT

Is Now on Between Merchants and Labor Unions—May Start Co-operation Stores.

Brazil, Ind., May 27.—After having boycotted almost every business house in Terre Haute the central trades union has turned its attention to this city, boycotting several firms for shipping goods over the Terre Haute electric company's line on which there is a strike. To retaliate the merchants have passed resolutions refusing to countenance any action taken against the merchants by the unions. The unions say they will star cooperative stores.

Chicago, May 27.—President Earling of the St. Paul railroad, after a trip through the four great grain-growing states, says never in the history of the road have crop prospects been so promising.

Annual Conclave Opened Today at Cincinnati—A Big Parade of the Uniform Rank.

Cincinnati, May 27.—The annual conclave of Knights of Pythias of Ohio opened in this city today. This was followed by a parade of the uniform rank after which the Grand Lodge convened in the Columbia theatre.

LOVERS

SUFFERING FOR AFFECTION UN-REQUIRED

KILL THEIR SWEETHEARTS AND SHOOT THEMSELVES.

ONE CRIME AT CHICAGO TODAY

Chicago, May 27.—Amiel Rossman, 19 years old, shot and killed Sophia Batal, aged 17 years, this morning and then fired a bullet into his own brain with probably fatal results. The couple came from Bohemia four weeks ago and the continued opposition to their marrying on the part of relatives is said to have led to the deed.

Kansas City, May 27.—Frank Robinson, aged 20, yesterday shot and killed his sweetheart, Gertie Rawling, aged 16; shot and fatally wounded his rival, Albert H. Ferguson, aged 19, and shot and fatally injured himself in an apartment house in this city.

Shortly before the tragedy Robinson wrote a note to his mother, in which he said that as Ferguson had supplanted him in the affections of the girl he purposed to kill them both and then himself. He went to the room where Ferguson and the girl were and being admitted opened fire.

The girl was shot near the heart, Ferguson was shot in the abdomen. Robinson shot himself in the left breast and his death is momentarily expected.

New York, May 27.—Insanely jealous over his wife's beauty, George B. Bruns last night on the eve of their second wedding anniversary shot his wife four times and then killed himself. She will probably die.

The tragedy took place in their home in Brooklyn. Bruns is 27 years old. The wife is beautiful and Bruns was madly jealous of her. Mrs. Bruns was worried by her husband's jealousy and always had her sister, Miss Edna Dashiell, accompany her whenever she went out. On occasions Bruns destroyed several gowns in which his wife looked attractive. Last night Miss Dashiell was invited to dine with them at their anniversary dinner.

All were in happy spirits. After dinner Miss Dashiell went into the front room. Later she heard high words, Mrs. Bruns crying, "I can't stand your accusations any longer. I am going home to my parents."

"You have said that before," answered Bruns.

"I am going this time," was Mrs. Bruns' reply.

Miss Dashiell heard three shots and peering through the door saw Bruns fire a fourth shot at his wife. Bruns then turned the revolver on himself and fired a bullet into his temple. He died instantly. There is little hope for Mrs. Bruns, who is 25 years old.

Youthful Burglar.

St. Louis, Mo., May 27.—Clarence Fox, 11 years old, is charged with burglary in the first degree. He was arrested late Sunday night suspected of looting a grocery store. Monday the boy admitted having broken into the store. His parents are respectable people, but the boy has shown a preference for running away.

PEACE IN SOUTH AFRICA.

For several days the news from London has indicated that the British and the Boers are seriously considering terms of peace and that the war in South Africa may soon be brought to a close. The Boers have fought for independence with the greatest courage, stubbornness and skill.

Never before among civilized people was there an array for so long a time of such feeble military forces against the power of a great empire as the Boers brought against the British. Their endurance has been marvelous, but the war has degenerated of late into a mere series of small guerrilla skirmishes and has been dying out from the process of natural exhaustion.

So peace had to come. Let the burghers insist on the very best terms that desperation can enforce. They should have ample terms—everything that a great nation can concede to a prostrate enemy with a country and the homes of its people to be restored.

Notwithstanding the enormous expense of the war, which has added $1,000,000,000 to its national debt, Great Britain can afford to be extremely generous in its offers, as the price of peace. It is cheaper to make peace than to make perpetual war.

Amnesty and discharge for all the prisoners of war, the restoration of civil rights and of captured property should be freely granted. At the Appomattox peace conference General Grant told the confederate prisoners to take their horses, mules and other property needed for plantation labor and to go home and build up the devastated country.

There could be no better terms of peace for Great Britain to grant to the Boers.

There should be the most merciful consideration in all ways for the victim of defeat. By these methods a real peace between the conquerors and the conquered—not a mere treacherous and armed truce—may be secured.

American Farmers Not Benefited.

(Indianapolis Sentinel.)

Northwestern Canada is producing a surplus of 50,000,000 bushels now, which is yearly increasing, and this is prevented from coming into this country by the tariff of 25 cents a bushel imposed by the Dingley tariff law. As a matter of necessity it goes abroad to be ground by foreign mills instead of being made into flour by American mills, which would be the natural course. Anyone can see that this does not benefit the American farmer, for the Canadian wheat competes with ours in the foreign market, and the demands of the foreign market control prices here, because we are large exporters.

Greed of the Trusts.

(Los Angeles Herald)

The chief fault of the trust system, aside from its crushing of small competitors, is the selfishness of its magnates. Their sole purpose, as shown in the annual report of the steel trust, is to swell profits and consequent dividends to the utmost. The men whose labor piles up the profits and the people who buy the products are left entirely out of the account.

Slowly Changing for the Better.

(Detroit Free Press.)

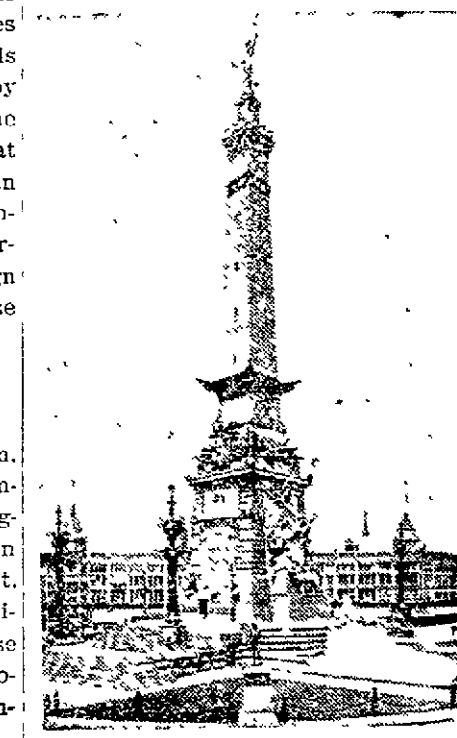

No municipal government in the United States is any too pure, and the revelations made by grand jury investigations often lead the general public to believe that municipal government generally is worse than it really is, but for all that the administration of municipal affairs is the most conspicuous government failure under the republic. Not even in Constantinople is corruption more common, but there is a slow but certain change for the better in spite of the discouraging conditions under which the work of purification is undertaken.

The Touch of Nature.

Warning nations main and slay. When the war god sets his path, Burn and hurry day by day. In the ruthless way of wrath. Yet when terror crowned the peak And a million furies swirled Over little Martinique, She was kin to all the world.

War its feast of death has kept Over every foot of earth. And the tears that sorrow wept Have been held of little worth. Yet when Nature rose in ire, In the rage none understands, Martinique's baptismal font Made her kin to all the lands.

When, with thrilling shriek and roar, All the pentup torrents fell, Burning field and plain and shore With a breath that brimmed from hell, Ere the flames their flags of woe Had in floating smoke wreaths furied Little Martinique could know She was kin to all the world.

'Tis the touch of Nature's hand That marks our relationship And bids each of pity stand All a-tremble on the lip. To the misery that man Works himself he's ever blind, 'Tis the touch of Nature can Make a whole world wondrous kind. —Baltimore American.

NEW SHIRT WAISTS.

Made in Various Fashions of Many Materials.

[Special Correspondence.]

New York, May 26.—Every succeeding week brings forth something new and pretty in the way of shirt waists, as all separate waists are now called. Each outdoes the other in point of ornamentation or richness of material. While there are as many cotton waists as ever, there are as many of silk and other expensive materials. I studied the question today in one of the largest shirt waist houses in this city, and that means the world, and saw perhaps more than a thousand different designs, all of them wrought in silk, the most of it such as will wash, and as many more made up of fine organdies, muslins, chiffons, fancy chinas, silks, lace patterns worked out in designs intended for the waist or sleeves, with pieces for cuffs, yokes or in some cases revers. Many in fine grass linen and delicate swiss are hand embroidered in exquisite designs. Such waists are provided with lining of colored silks which show faintly through.

Saxony flannel waists in many different colors and patterns are seen. They are beautifully made and are often embroidered. The most elegant of these have the embroidery done in silk of the same or one shade darker than the cloth. For cool days at the seashore are many of these saxony waists. There are many other fine woolen stuffs quite suitable for summer, and among them one finds oxford and chevot. Black silk is also seen very often in the handsomest of them, mostly in the corded quality.

Among the dainties of the silk waists are the fine and pinhead checks, which come in blue and white, brown and white, or blood red and white, also black and white. Foulard and pongee and china silk waists are all fine when properly made up.

The list above leaves out all the Scotch novelty linens and ginghams.

ONE OF THE NEW WAISTS.

These are very pretty and especially valuable for their wearing qualities. These linens are very transparent and come in fine stripes in pink, blue, green, lavender and red in a white ground or sometimes natural linen ground. There are some silk and cotton mousselines in all the colors of the season and in black. Canvas waists in natural flax color and in tan are made up and trimmed with heavy lace, and they are certainly neat.

To match most of the waists there are stocks of many kinds. It is manish, this neckwear, and embraces besides the neck which it encircles four-in-hands and tawdry coaching, as well as several other forms. All are washable save those made of fine silk, but I do not remember seeing much neckwear made of silk. Madras ginghams and linens and a few piques and percales seem to be the preferred material for the stocks.

Chiffon, silk mull and lace would all seem to be too light to do much service as waists, but we see many of them, and, with reasonable care, I think they are as durable as ordinary silk. Longitudinal tucks are still among the best ways of ornamenting these. The yoke may be arranged so that the tucks form points, and the rest is up and down. Sleeves are bishop, with the top tucked and the lower part left out to form a puff. Lace is laid over the tucks. Another style has the waist of white or black lace. Sleeves and all are ornamented by application of lace.

One has the front in vest form filled in with chiffon gauffered down and one row of insertion down the center. Three rows of ribbon are brought over the shoulders and down to the belt front and back. Over these are laid lines of insertion.

A very striking promenade blouse waist is made of black peau de cygne silk. The fronts are laid in deep folds, each stitched three times on the edge. The sleeves are treated in the same way. The cuffs are deep and made of silk, but at the bottom they have reversed cuffs of white satin edged with a frill of lace. There are a draped vest and high stock and a large collar of white satin edged with black velvet ribbon. This in turn has a frill of handsome white lace. This is really a beautiful waist and is very dressy besides.

ART OF CARICATURE

EVOLUTION AND INFLUENCE OF THE NEWSPAPER CARTOON.

The Ancient Greeks, Romans and Egyptians Used Grotesque Pictures to Emphasize Their Satire—The Eighteenth Century Craze.

The story is told of an abbe of the seventeenth century who was as deformed in figure as he was ridiculous in dress, and as sensitive about his physical deformity, that while serving mass one morning he observed a smile of contempt on the face of one of the courtiers present and determined to avenge himself by serving a process upon him for appearance in court the following day.

The offender, M. de Lassen by name, knowing that things would go hard with him unless he could show some reason for his mirth, made a hasty sketch of the hunchback abbe, exaggerating in size the six black caps and the waistcoats in which he was wont to appear, and when he was solemnly asked to show cause for his unseemly mirth and indignity to the holy church he suddenly displayed before his judges the caricature of the abbe as his "excuse." The likeness was so excellent and the cartoon so grotesque that the entire court fell to laughing, and the accused was liberated without a reprimand.

This is the first authentic case of the power of the cartoon in a hall of justice, but it illustrates the power of the pencil in depicting the follies of the foolish and the affectations of the artificial.

There is no telling when the art of caricature began. There are a number of grotesques that have come down to us from earliest Egyptian times. The Greeks employed pictures to emphasize their satire, and so did the Romans. All through the middle ages there were numberless examples of "grotesqueries" which, curiously enough, were used in enforcing the doctrines of the church by means of satirizing the devil. But the eighteenth century was the heyday of the cartoon.

Beginning in France and overrunning into Holland and thence across the channel into England, the flood of caricaturists carried everything before it, and it is safe to say that the history of the times with clearer vision and with more accuracy of detail for the mirror which caricaturists held up to reflect the striking peculiarities of the men and events passing before it.

Gautier mentions a Spanish cartoonist, Francisco Goya y Lucientes, a mixture of Rembrandt, Watteau and Rabelais, who preceded the two great caricaturists of the latter half of the eighteenth century, George Cruikshank in England and M. Charlet in France. Charlet is known as the father of modern social caricature and holds as good title to his position as does Philipau to that of the father of comic journalism, with Le Charivari, the strongest paper of its kind. Then came Punch in England, which still retains its subtitle of the London Charivari, for years the faithful if not the most highly polished reflector of British life. Upon its staff John Leech, Richard Doyle, John Tenniel, George du Maurier and a dozen men of lesser name kept Great Britain in good humor for two generations.

It has been reserved for America, however, to bring forth a new race of caricaturists, for lack of a better title may be called the personal cartoonists, men who seize upon the characteristics of an individual and so exaggerate them that the subjects of the cartoons are known by the most prominent features in their physical, mental or moral makeup.

True there was one man in London a hundred years ago, Gillray by name, who had this faculty of dissecting his subject until he found his weakest point and then unmercifully pricking it with his drawing pencil, but with him the race died out, to be reincarnated in America. Gillray was a close observer of people and events. He would sit in his publisher's window and watch the fops of the court as they passed and fasten in his memory every feature by which a man would be recognized by his acquaintances. He remembered every story that related to the traits of character of those in the public eye, and the St. James street of 1800 is faithfully reproduced in his art.

Perhaps we Americans look at the droll side of life more than other people, but certain it is we have more and better cartoonists than elsewhere. The very quickness with which we see the point of a joke demands equal facility in portraying drollery in a cartoon. We sketch boldly and leave much of the unnecessary detail to our slower consins. Then, too, our public events happen with such startling rapidity that a cartoon of yesterday's doings would be flat today, and we must keep very much alive and be ready for a political change overnight.

In other words, the alert American must have depicted in his cartoon the very traits of character that have made him what he is, the quickest and brightest of men.—Thomas Nast in New York Times.

WIFE CLAIMS

HUSBAND ELOPED WITH ANOTHER WOMAN.

And Came to Licking County from Iowa and Later Went to Coshocton to Live.

(Mt. Vernon Banner.)

Sarah Emery on Monday filed a suit against Alonzo Emery, for divorce, and in doing so exposed the dual life of her recent spouse. They were married in Warren county, Ia., February 23, 1878, five children being born. Mrs. Emery charges desertion and failure to provide.

She alleges that in 1890, while they were living in Camden county, Missouri, her husband fled to Licking county, Ohio, with another woman. Later, he removed to Coshocton county, Ohio, where he now lives and owns a large planing mill and other valuable personal property. She says that for the past ten years he has failed to provide for herself or their children and that she has not cohabited with him for three years. She asks for divorce, alimony, and a temporary injunction, which was granted by Judge Coyner, restraining defendant from disposing of any property during the pendency of the suit. A. J. A PREMATURE ENGAGEMENT

(Original.)

The sham battle was at its height. A young officer galloped up to the Tenth infantry standing in an open field and called out to the colonel:

"The judges have decided that your regiment has been slaughtered."

"Field officers all killed?"

"Every one."

"Good," said the colonel, sheathing his sword and unclasping his belt. "Since I am dead I'll take a snack."

The colonel called for his haversack, spread his luncheon on a napkin, ate his fill, washed it down with a pull at his flask and lighted a cigar. He was rather young for a colonel, only twenty-five, but a bloody war had killed off a lot of men ahead of him. The sun was hot, and he was very drowsy, so he left his men and walked away to a tree, under whose shade he stretched his graceful figure.

He was sleeping soundly when one of the contending generals rode by, the general on whose side the colonel was arrayed. He was accompanied by his staff and his daughter, riding a brown filly and clad in a habit trimmed with gold lace.

"What's the matter with Colonel Lister?" demanded the general.

"He's dead," replied the lieutenant colonel, coming up.

The general's daughter shrieked, threw up her hands and would have fallen from her horse had not the chief of staff caught her. There was a sensation among the officers present, but no one laughed. A sudden thrill, like a death struggle, passed through the colonel's body, but beyond this he showed no signs of consciousness. The general flashed a glance at his daughter as though he wished a stray shot would knock out her silly brains.

"He's not really dead, Miss Rosamond," whispered the chief of staff.

"This is a sham, you know."

"Oh!" gasped the lady, turning crimson. No one could tell whether she was pleased or grieved at the information.

"Didn't the Tenth carry the works on Chancellors hill?" asked the general.

"No, general," replied the lieutenant colonel. "The judges decided that we were slaughtered and all the field officers killed."

"Humph!" replied the commander.

"The matter should have been reported to me at once." And, putting spurs to his horse, he rode on, followed by his daughter, staff and escort.

They were no sooner out of sight than the colonel sat up.

"That's the most ridiculous give away I ever heard of. That's why we can't make soldiers of women. No matter how strong a front they present, there's no knowing but that if a mouse should run through their ranks they would give way to panic. Here I've been hanging about her for months, cringing, pleading, she throwing me off, fooling me all the while, only to let it out in this silly fashion. Well, she's in for it now. It'll be the talk of every garrison in the army, and if she refuses me again they'll all say that it was I who didn't come up to the scratch."

The soliloquy was interrupted by a roar of artillery, volleys of musketry, huzzas. Then the bugler sounded a recall. The battle was over.

"This corpse," remarked the colonel, rising, "goes to quarters. Tonight he goes to receive the surrender."

Taps was sounding when the colonel rang at General Pertle's quarters. He called for Miss Rosamond, and after considerable delay the lady came down.

"Rosamond," he said, "pardon me for coming to you again after having been so lately refused for the sixth time."

"The sixtieth, you mean," she said, tapping "her silken sandaled foot" on the rug.

"It will be the six hundredth before I give you up."

"Doubtless your boldness this evening comes from that ridiculous mistake which occurred on the field today."

"What mistake?"

"Don't tell me that you didn't hear?" She hesitated.

"Do the dead hear?"

"They certainly do not snore."

"Well, then, do those who snore hear?"

"You had ceased to snore when I—when the lieutenant colonel?"

"Nerve mind, Rosamond, what the lieutenant colonel said. I have come for the seventh time."

"The sixty-first, you mean."

"Well, the sixty-first time, to ask the woman I love, the only woman I have ever loved or will ever."

"Can't you change the form of your proposal? You have used those words every time."

"I will try. It is whispered among the officers' wives—"

"None of their wives was present."

"Their husbands told them—that I had won your heart only to throw it away; that you, not I—"

"Cease such gossip. I do not wish to hear it."

"At the officers' mess this evening I saw by their looks that something had happened, and I overheard a remark coupling my name with yours. It is false," said, "Gentlemen, I have the honor to announce my engagement with Miss Rosamond Pertle."

"You dared to do such a thing?"

"I did. I beg of you, Rosamond, sweetheart, to confirm what I have said." He put his arm about her and drew her toward him. "Go at once to your father and tell him of our engagement."

"There is no need to do that."

"Why not?"

"Because," she said, dropping her head on his breast. "I announced it to him as soon as we returned from the sham battle this afternoon."

NECK BROKEN

But Ballentine Still Lives, is Conscious and Able to Talk, Though Fatally Hurt.

Noblesville, Ind., May 27—While D. R. Ballentine was endeavoring to repair a set screw on a pulley at his saw mill near this city, the belt caught his clothing, tore off every garment he wore and threw him to the ground. He fell on his head and his neck was broken. He is still alive, but there is no hope of his recovery.

The remarkable thing is the failure of the fall to produce instant death. Specialists who saw the injured man say that it is the only case on record of an injury of the character which Ballentine sustained where the party did not die instantly. He is conscious and able to talk, but cannot move himself. He is 50 years old and has a large family.

The case is attracting the attention of many leading physicians.

THERMOMETER

Takes a Drop and Makes Straw Hats and Negligee Shirts Look Out of Date.

For the past two or three days the people have been sweating under the rays of a torrid sun, with the temperature anywhere from 80 to 85 degrees in the shade. On Monday the temperature was 78 degrees, while this morning the thermometer registered from 48 to 40 degrees, a drop of from 30 to 38 degrees. People who left their homes this morning without their overcoats, soon missed them, and many were donned later in the day. The weather prophets have been predicting that May would go out with cold weather and rains, and judging from the condition today it would not be surprising if there should be frost tonight, providing the clouds roll away. An Advocate telegram announces an inch of snow at Grafton, W. Va., and a dispatch from Cleveland to this paper says the thermometer there to day read 43 with a stiff breeze off Lake Erie. Today the Washington weather bureau sent out the following bulletin for Ohio: Fair, continued cool tonight, probably light frost Wednesday fair with rising temperature.

In the Columbus record of 25 years for May 27 the maximum temperature was 88 degrees in the year 1881, and the minimum was 52 degrees in 1895. In the past 24 hours the minimum temperature at Columbus was 42 degrees and the maximum was 74 degrees in the past 24 hours at the weather bureau at Columbus.

Offer for the Monon.

New York, May 27—The banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., as depository for the Louisville & Nashville Railway company, and the Southern Railway Co., has sent a circular letter to Monon stockholders making a formal offer of 90 for the preferred stock and 70 for the common.

If less than 51 per cent of the entire capital stock is on deposit with Morgan & Co. by July 1 the offer to buy may be withdrawn at the option of the prospective purchasers. Although control of Monon is said to be vested in no definite interest at this time, it is understood that Morgan & Co. have assurances that the foregoing terms will be accepted by a majority of the shareholders.

Denied by Hill.

St. Louis, May 27—James J. Hill, President of the Northern Securities Company, who has been inspecting the Burlington terminals here, left for St. Paul.

With reference to the Wall street reports that efforts were being made looking to a compromise of the so-called merger suit, Mr. Hill said:

"There is nothing whatsoever in that. We are content to leave that matter of the Courts to decide. We have confidence in the Courts and are satisfied that the case will be fairly decided. We own the property and no one can take it from us."

Then Secures Rights.

Harlan, Ky., May 27—The Southern Railroad has secured the right of way from Middlesboro, Ky., to Harlan Courthouse, and it is said the construction of the road will soon begin. It will run down Yellow Creek and up the Cumberland River to Harlan, thence up Clover Fork to Big Stone Gap, Va. It will open rich coal and timber lands. Options on mountain lands are being taken by agents of coal companies for from $10 to $15 an acre.

Do Not Neglect THE LITTLE ILLS OF TODAY.

The Use of PAINE'S Celery Compound

Will Eradicate from the Blood and System the Seeds of Disease.

As grains of sand make our lofty mountains, drops of water the mighty ocean, and as our massive buildings are made of one brick piled upon another, so do the little ills of life contribute to the building up of deadly diseases in the body.

Experienced medical men claim that fully three-fourths of our men and women enter the summer season with little ills and symptoms of disease, which must develop into serious and fatal troubles if not banished at once.

We hear our friends complaining daily of rheumatic tendencies, sharp and darting new alic pains, dyspepsia, pains in the side and back, nervousness, and sleeplessness; and we see with our own eyes the effects of impure blood in facial blotches, eruptions, and sores. The little ills and pains of today build up the alarming and fatal diseases that follow days and weeks of neglect.

Wise and intelligent people who have looked into the claims of Paine's Celery Compound and followed its remarkable cures of relatives, friends, and neighbors, use it themselves with faith and confidence, to banish their symptoms of "coming troubles," to cleanse the blood, to re-establish nerve force, energy, and bodily strength, so that they will be in condition to withstand the "enervating effects of the coming hot weather."

In every community where Paine's Celery Compound has been used at this season to banish disease, it is regarded as a godsend. Workers in offices, shops, factories, and weary and rundown wives and mothers in their homes have thanked Heaven for Dr. Phelps' marvelous prescription because it made them well. Try a bottle or two, ye who are ailing and sick; it will give you what you most stand in need of—health and new life.

Searchers in St. Pierre Overcome by the Horrors.

SIXTEEN BODIES LAY IN A HEAP

Boy Found Stricken Dead as He Put a Crust of Bread in His Mouth—Body on Floating Hatchway Thought to Be Captain Muggah's—No Earthquake Signs.

From St. Pierre the relief expedition sent from Bridgetown, Barbados, W. I., the day after the disaster recently returned, bringing tales of horror, says the New York Herald's special correspondent. Dr. C. J. Manning, who went on the Solent, gives this account of what he saw:

"We knew before leaving Bridgetown that the disaster at St. Pierre was one that had shocked the world, but we were not prepared for what we found. Steaming into the roadstead, we saw the entire city in ruins, with no sign of life about the place. Smoke was rising from the blackened walls, and ashes sifted down upon the deck of the Solent. As we neared the shore the wrecks of many ships were seen besides the Roraima, which was still smoking. The sides of the Roraima were still hot, and as the water lapped against her it sizzled, and steam arose. On the deck were two swollen and blackened bodies.

"We found all the large fig trees near the beach uprooted. Some with the roots uppermost were without a leaf left on them. The boughs were snapped off and scattered all over the landing place. We noticed that one house had fallen in and the ceiling laths were twisted all in one direction, just as one might twist a handful of straws. This seems to point to the fact that the sudden escape of so much heated air from the volcano caused a sort of whirlwind, which tore up the trees by their roots.

"There was no sign whatever of there having been a great earthquake, as there were no cracks or fissures on the esplanade or anywhere else. Smoke and flame were to be seen in various parts of the town, and far above our heads the volcano was sending out dense masses of black smoke. The cathedral was smoldering, and here and there we passed houses still aglow and smoking. Wherever we turned there were dead bodies to be seen, scorched, blackened, hideous. The greater number were on their faces, some with their heads between their hands as if to avoid the stifling vapor which suffocated them.

"Lying on a deckhouse that floated to the shore was a body which we believe was that of Captain Muggah of the Roraima. Not far away lay a magnificent specimen of a man, evidently a sailor who had perhaps floated ashore on wreckage, believing that he had escaped the dangers of the burning ship and was safe. He had pulled his jumper over his head to avoid the suffocating fumes, but all to no purpose. Not one living soul had escaped.

"Just around a corner from where the body of the sailor lay were sixteen bodies in a heap. All must have been running to escape death and were overpowered in the twinkling of an eye. There was the body of a slender girl, hardly in her teens. Just beyond her lay the bodies of two, evidently mother and daughter, their hands tightly clasped.

"Showing how suddenly death had come upon them, there was the body of a man who had just thrust a crust of bread into his mouth. Death had stricken him as his teeth crunched up on the bread. He fell without suffering. A little farther down the street were the horse and buggy belonging to Mr. Barnes, manager of the bank. The horse had tucked its head under its body in a vain effort to escape the deadly fumes.

"Everywhere was the same awful story of destruction and death. Side by side lay a young woman and a mother who had clasped her babe to her breast and had knelt over it, hoping, no doubt, to save its life, though death came to her."

A report from St. Vincent states that in one house were found the bodies of thirty-two persons. One man was sitting by a table with a pipe in his mouth, and a little child had its tiny hand outstretched in the act of grasping a toy. All wore the most natural expression of consternation, so quickly did the death stroke accomplish its work.

Bishop Taylor's Stone Pillow.

It is said at Baltimore that Bishop Taylor of the Methodist Episcopal church, who died recently at Palo Alto, Cal., had for over half a century slept with his head pillowed upon a stone. He generally carried the stone in a satchel, says the Chicago Tribune, and always laid his head upon it at night wherever he was, thus literally carrying out the words of the hymn, "My rest a stone." The Rev. Mr. Smith of Baltimore says that on one occasion the bishop visited him when the temperature was far below zero and that the bishop slept in the room with all the windows thrown up and with his head on the stone. It is said that this mode of life accounted for his wonderful physical endurance.

The Chat of Washington

[Special Correspondence.]
Washington, May 26.—Aside from his congressional duties Representative Morrell of Philadelphia devotes much time to society. He is rich, his wife being a member of the Drexel family, and he can afford to indulge his taste and inclination for social gaiety. The other day Mr. Morrell was taken into the room of the committee on appropriations by Chairman Cannon to see the new furniture. He looked for a time without saying anything.

"What do you think of it?" asked "Uncle Joe."

"I was just thinking that this table," said Mr. Morrell, pointing to the long

"What do you think of it?" one used by the full committee, "would be fine for playing pingpong if it was only about two feet shorter."

Speaking of this popular fad, there has been circulated about Washington the report that Wu Ting Fang has the "pingpong pang." It appears that some newspaper writer more versatile than truthful started the story that the Chinese minister has become a devotee of this indoor recreation and has caught the attendant madly. This Mr. Wu positively denies. In his usual bland manner he thus discusses pingpong and the "pingpong pang."

"It is a game like this: You hit a little ball with a what do you call it. The ball hits the table—the game is played on a table—and the ball says, 'Pingpong.' That's the game. It's a foolish game. I saw it at a reception two weeks ago. The ladies were playing it, and I tried it for a little while."

"I saw a statement in the paper that I had the 'pingpong pang.' It isn't true," he said in a tone of disgust and injured dignity. "I never had the 'pingpong pang.' But I have read about the pingpong pang disease. Is it a fact that the game causes pain of the shin bones? Where is the shin bone? Is this it?"

Mr. Wu cheerfully stroked that portion of his anatomy. "I don't see how the game gives you a pain there," said he; "the 'pang,' as it is called. It might make you tired in the arms, but not in the shin bone. I don't like the game. No; my shin bone is all right," said Minister Wu.

Cardinal Martinelli, who lately left Washington, returning to Rome, learned English in Dublin, Ireland, and speaks it with the mellow brogue of the educated Irishman from that part of the Emerald Isle. The cardinal took delight in telling this story about his accent.

Shortly after his arrival in this country an old woman called at the delegation upon some matter of minor importance and was granted an audience with the affable apostolic delegate. Then she startled the people of Washington by asserting that the new delegate was an Irishman.

"Indeed, then, he is Irish," she said, "because I heard him talk. And, sure, isn't his name Martin Kelly?"

Cardinal Gibbons came down from Baltimore recently to examine a class of postulants for confirmation. The parish priest was proud of the proficiency of his pupils and was showing them off. He had asked various questions and finally asked one little girl: "What is matrimony?" She promptly answered: "Matrimony is a condition in which those who are in a state of grace undergo grievous torment in order that they may afterward enjoy eternal happiness."

"Oh, no, my dear child. You are mixing up matrimony with purgatory," said the priest.

"Let her alone," interposed the cardinal. "What do you and I know about it anyway. Perhaps she is right."

It is related that when Representative Cowherd of Missouri was making his late campaign he was accompanied by Representative Cochran of the same state upon one occasion. While Mr. Cochran was making a speech he was frequently interrupted by a big, red-headed, muscular appearing voter, who kept asking irrelevant questions.

The interruptions embarrassed Mr. Cochran, and Mr. Cowherd sat thinking how he would "trim" the interrupter when he arose to speak. Finally Cowherd's time came, and he led the man into making interruptions. When it became unbearable he said, pointing his finger at the man:

"Haven't you heard the story of how a braying ass put to flight the entire Syrian army?"

"Don't you be afraid of this audience," shouted back the redheaded man. "There ain't no danger of it stampeding. You've done tested it."

A man named Johnson, from Iowa, came to Washington to get a consular appointment. The Iowa senators and representatives went to the front for him. He was promised something. When he went to see about the promise, he was told that there was nothing left but some of the fever ports of Central and South America, where consuls die with great frequency and where the salary is not particularly attractive.

"Oh, that's all right," said Johnson. "I'm young and strong, and I'll take one of them."

This was satisfactory to the state department. Johnson was notified to appear before an examining board to be questioned as to his fitness for such a place. The third question asked him was:

"How many Hessians did George III. hire to come to this country to fight the Americans during the Revolution?"

Johnson thought for a long time. Then he said:

"I don't know, but it was a darn sight more than went back."

Secretary Shaw tells a story on Professor Hyatt, the weather observer at St. Louis. Professor Hyatt has the appearance of a business man. During the last street car strike he was about to get on a car when a member of the strike committee stepped up to him and asked if he intended riding on the car. The professor replied that such was his intention. The striker sought to persuade him not to ride, but he preferred riding to walking and started to get on the car.

"Well, if you ride on that car we will withdraw our patronage from you," said the striker.

"I don't care whether you patronize me or not. I'm in the weather business," replied Professor Hyatt as he hopped on the car.

Delegate Rodey of New Mexico had a visitor the other day from his territory and took him up to see congress at work. "I ain't thinkin' much of this yer outfit," said the New Mexican.

"Why not?" asked Rodey.

HE MET RODEY IN A CORRIDOR. "There don't seem to be no statesmen in the bunch."

"Oh," said Rodey, "probably there are no Daniel Websters here, but there is a mighty good lot of men of fine ability."

"So I was thinkin'," said the New Mexican; "all tableland and no peaks."

And Need Medicine for Your Kidneys, Liver, Bladder or Blood, Get the Best.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy

If you are suffering from kidney or bladder disease, the doctor asks: "Do you desire to urinate often, and are you compelled to get up frequently during the night? Does your back pain you? Does your urine stain linen? Is there a scalding pain in passing it, and is it difficult to hold the urine back? If so, your kidneys or bladder are diseased."

Try putting some of your urine in a glass tumbler, let it stand twenty-four hours. If there is a sediment or a cloudy, milky appearance, your kidneys are sick.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy will surely relieve and cure the most distressing cases of these dread diseases and no physician can prescribe a medicine that equals it for kidney, liver, bladder and blood diseases, rheumatism, dyspepsia and chronic constipation.

Walter D. Miller of Delhi, N. Y., writes:

"I suffered for years with kidney trouble and severe pains in my back, at times it was so bad I could hardly walk. My stomach also troubled me and I frequently had twinges of rheumatism. I suffered a great deal and received no benefit until I began the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. After taking it a short while it cured me."

IDLEWILDE

Newark's Beautiful Park Will Open on Sunday, June 1st—More Interesting Than Ever.

This beautiful summer resort will be opened to the public on Sunday, June 1, 1902, in a way which will easily make it the most popular resort in Central Ohio. J. F. Lingafelter, the proprietor, and R. C. Lingafelter, the manager, have spared neither expense, time nor labor to make Idlewild all that modern research and invention can do. They have one of the finest band organizations that can be secured for this season. The interior of the casino has been newly painted throughout and will be continued with the attractions, and the attractions the coming season will be of the very best and consist of entire new acts and new faces, same acts as will be seen in vaudeville houses in Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Cincinnati, Columbus, etc., will be seen in Idlewild Park casino. Boating and modern bathing beach will be the attractions at the lakes. They have been improved and the beach will equal the most pretentious summer resort. Also the great miniature steam railway will be one of the new attractions at Idlewild this season; also Edison's Kintoscope will be another new attraction. It is one of the latest improved moving picture machines. This will be given as a free out door attraction each evening, showing moving pictures of latest and interesting events. A complete change of pictures will be made each week during the whole of the park season.

In addition to the above there will be on opening day: Dancing in the dancing pavilion, bowling, hand concerts, ball games, racing, with bicycle, and foot racing, a sensational free out door aerial act which will be given afternoon and evening during the opening week. Prices of admission to park and theatre same as usual.

The hotel and restaurant will again be conducted on temperance principles. Other features of interest and amusement will be given on opening day and continue during the season. The ball diamond at the park has been thoroughly remodeled and tiers of seats erected capable of holding a thousand spectators.

Idlewild park will continue to be the popular resort of our rapidly growing city. It will be clean, ably and well managed. No person of doubtful character will be allowed to enter the park. No intoxicating liquors will be sold or allowed on the park grounds.

We repeat that the management intends to make Idlewild Park this season more interesting and enjoyable than ever before. 5-24-02

COMPANY IS HOPEFUL.

The drillers are busily engaged in drilling in the well near Ram Rock for the Newark Oil and Gas Company. Mr. J. J. Carroll of this city, who is one of the members of the company, visited the new well on Monday and learned that the drillers had gone to depth of 2600 feet, and that they expect to reach the Clinton sand today or tomorrow. The members of the company are very sanguine over the outcome of the well, as the prospects are very flattering.

RACING

On North Third Street Within the City Limits Should be Stopped at Once.

Third street is recognized as the most public thoroughfare in the city, and yet there is more actual horse racing on North Third street than on any other street or road leading from the city. Notwithstanding that there is a school building just about midway on the race course, at which many small children attend, and despite the fact that a number of minor accidents have occurred, the street is used by many as a regular course on which to speed their horses. This racing has continued for some time with less disturbance or interruption by the city authorities than any other nuisance occurring on the streets of the city, and not because of the fact that there has been no protest from the residents of the street. This racing should be stopped, even if it becomes necessary for the city to place a special patrolman on this street to arrest and prosecute the offending parties. There is no question that a fatal accident should occur on Third street the city will be put to an expense for damages. An example should be made of some of these speeders.

DOCTOR INSANE.

Kankakee, Ill., May 27.—Dr. Emmett Enos, formerly chief of the medical staff of the Kankakee insane hospital, who became violently mad last Tuesday, has been adjudged insane.

The stricken man recognized the judge and physicians in attendance and begged that his trial be postponed. He complained bitterly of the brutality of the attendants in charge, and tried to escape Sunday, jumping from a window and running half a mile. Enos' case is considered hopeless. Worry over illness and the symptoms of approaching insanity are said to have hastened his fate.

Shortly after his arrival in this country an old woman called at the delegation upon some matter of minor importance and was granted an audience with the affable apostolic delegate. Then she startled the people of Washington by asserting that the new delegate was an Irishman.

ON TO MOUNT THUNDER

Race of the Gold Seekers Has Begun.

EXPERTS REPORT AMAZING FACTS

It is Expected That the New El Dorado Will Prove to Be the Richest Field in the World—Mineral Surveyor Tells of the Best Route for Prospectors to Follow.

An army of 6,500 prospectors from almost every state in the Union recently began the rush into Thunder mountain, the new El Dorado of fabulous richness, says a dispatch from Salt Lake City, Utah, to the Kansas City Star.

Camped along the trail for miles, living in tents, with bunks burrowed deep into the snow, the army of prospectors have braved the intense cold, only waiting for word from the mountain that the snow has melted and the trails are clear before beginning the terrible trip seventy miles up through the mountain, through unexplored country, to the goldfields that promise to be the richest in the world. One hundred square miles of ground full of gold and silver is there undeveloped.

Mining experts sent into the fields by operators and by the state and federal governments have made stirring reports of the richness of the ore.

Numerous inquiries from persons from Maine to California have been received regarding a reliable and authoritative statement of the prospects and the presence of gold in the Thunder fields. Herewith is given a report made by Professor E. H. Mead, a chemist and mining expert of note, who was sent into the new goldfields to examine and make a report as to the true conditions. Professor Mead has just filed his report, in which he says:

"In reply to your question as to what were my impressions of Thunder mountain I will say that it is an immense reef of rhyolite, porphyry and breccia, averaging $0.50 per ton in such quantities that in the short time I was there it was impossible to estimate its extent.

"Irrespective of the immense reef of low grade rock there are streaks of high grade ore, one streak in particular that is over four thousand dollars per ton. This in ordinary mining countries would be called a vein. I dug out large pieces of ore that were literally plastered with gold. To give you the extent of the reef, I will say, entering the main tunnel at a point 110 feet under the surface outcrop, I sampled in a westerly direction for a distance of 250 feet, with neither top, bottom nor sides to this deposit, that averaged over $325 per ton. This will give at present 2,000 feet of back owing to the tunnel being carried to that depth with drift; also a crosscut from the west drift, a distance of seventy feet, with the ore still in the face, that gives same average.

"In no place did I find either foot or hanging wall. The rich streak spoken of heretofore I did not sample. It was so rich to the naked eye it was unnecessary. Twenty-five miles west from Thunder mountain there are large veins of copper ore, both at Profile creek and Copper camp. At the latter place there is a vein uncovered at sixty feet deep over ten feet in width that carries 12 per cent in copper the entire width.

"On Elk creek, a distance of fifty miles from Thunder mountain, I saw unmistakable signs of mineral, while on Thunder mountain, fifteen miles from Thunder mountain, claims have been staked that show very good prospects. Taking it as a whole, it is the most remarkable mining country I ever expect to see.

"The formation of the country is principally granite and gneiss, together with quartz, porphyry, rhyolite and trachyte. The granite is rich in fluorite, and in my opinion the formation is very favorable for the discovery of great deposits of gold bearing ores."

State Mining Inspector M. H. Jacobs of Boise, Idaho, says only half the story has been told of the richness of Thunder mountain.

"Many persons believe that the reports from Thunder mountain have been greatly exaggerated," Mr. Jacobs said, "but, in my opinion, the reports are really richer than prospectors believe it is. There are great surprises in store. The 100 square miles area is owned by the government. Any man is free to drive a stake and file his claim. A person may sink a shaft in almost any place in that country and find paying ore. It only costs $1.25, at the highest figure, to mill the ore, and, by the way, that is one of the advantages of Thunder mountain over the other districts. The ore is freer and costs less to mill. Some of it can be put through for 50 or 60 cents.

"Thunder mountain is the center of a wonderful mineral country. On every side are districts which have turned out large sums of gold, mostly placer. Boise has produced $20,000,000 in gold; Warren can show $18,000,000 on the express books, Florence $36,000,000 and Custer City, in the east, $10,000,000. It will be found this summer that there are many other districts quite as rich as the Thunder mountain district. I have some claims myself twenty miles away that show eighty ounces in gold. Then there are copper, silver and lead until it almost makes you sick to see them all go to waste."

H. M. St. Cyr, United States deputy mineral surveyor, who has returned from Thunder mountain, endorses Professor Mead's report. Said he:

"I advise prospectors to enter by way of Fayetteville. This is the old trappers' route and was used by the Hudson Bay trappers a hundred years ago. You can still find the trappers' beaver frames and their old beartraps at points along the trail."

CHARM OF WEST INDIES.

Consul Sawyer Describes Some Odd Customs Prevailing.

United States Consul George Sawyer, stationed at Antigua, West Indies, who was in Washington for a few days upon business, in speaking of the recent disaster at Martinique described to a Washington Post reporter some of the odd customs prevailing in the islands. He said:

"A great portion of the charm that a voyage in the West Indies possesses is due to the fact that within a very short space of time and distance one may change not only the nationality of the country he is in, but the customs, manners and surroundings as well. Emigrants who go to the islands rarely return. They preserve and transmit to their descendants the ways and manners of the fatherland as a part of their patrimony. They have at Martinique and Guadeloupe the most extraordinary apparatus in the shape of a boat that mortal eye ever beheld. It resembles a small coffin made of rough boards, with the top left off. The occupant, however, far from being dead, is the liveliest dandy that it is possible to conceive. He paddles his funny boat from shore with his hands and sits upon his bottom as destitute of clothes as when he was born, ready to dive like a frog for the smallest coin that may be thrown from the steamer deck above. Strange to say, he always gets it.

"The hotels on these two islands are a revelation of oddity. Outside they present no special difference from other houses in the block. Inside one finds a paved court and an immense cage, where fowls of various kinds are awaiting their call to serve as parts of the dinner each day. Why this cage exists none can tell, for its doors are always open, and the fowls assume themselves by excursions into the various sleeping chambers, to which they have access day and night.

"Another peculiarity of Martinique is that the Frenchmen wear black clothes and silk hats and stroll about the streets under the shade of sun umbrellas with the thermometer at 98 at the coolest time of day. I also found the islands singularly destitute of lepers in the streets. In making inquiry I was told that the disease is very rare and that as soon as a case appeared it was promptly isolated."

THE ROCHAMBEAU STATUE.

A Reception Due to Jules Bouffe, Chancellor of French Embassy.

Considerable interest has been added to the Rochambeau ceremonies by the closure of the complete story as to the statue of the commander of the French expeditionary forces of the Revolutionary war had its inception. A Washington dispatch to the New York Herald, M. Jules Bouffe, chief of the French embassy, has now declared that there were in the United States eight statues of Lafayette and none of Rochambeau, and some time ago he conceived the idea of having the United States purchase a replica of the statue, which was unveiled at the Paris exposition.

He revealed in interesting influential circles, among them Senator Allison of Iowa, and in May, 1900, a bill authorizing the purchase of the statue was passed by the senate. Its reception was favorable in the house of representatives. M. Bouffe made new efforts during the session of 1900-01, which were successful, and on March 3, 1901, the president approved an act appropriating $7,500 for the statue. This sum was not sufficient for all the expenses, and M. Bouffe again exercised his diplomacy, with the result that congress passed a bill appropriating the sum of $15,000 for the pedestal, foundations and unveiling ceremonies, and subsequently two joint resolutions carrying appropriations aggregating $20,000 for the reception and entertainment of the delegates sent to represent the families of Rochambeau and Lafayette on the occasion of the unveiling ceremonies.

France has indicated her purpose to confer medals of the Legion of Honor upon Assistant Secretary of State H. D. Peirce, Lieutenant Colonel Theodore A. Bingham and Commander Raymond P. Rodgers, members of the president's commission for the reception and entertainment of the distinguished French visitors. M. Bouffe will not be recognized by his government in any way.

ART SIMMS KNOCKED OUT.

severely. Sieloff's manager says that he will at once challenge Joe Gans for a match for the lightweight championship. Gans and Sieloff have met before, the former getting the decision.

McGUIRE ENJOINED.

Philadelphia, May 27.—John I. Rogers as counsel for the Brooklyn National league base ball club, filed a bill in equity in common pleas court No. 1 yesterday against James McGuire, catcher of the Detroit American league team, to enjoin him from playing with any club but the complainant organization during the season of 1902. McGuire, it is declared, signed with the Brooklyn club for the present season on September 25 last. Recently, it is alleged, he jumped his contract and is now playing with the Detroit team, which opened a series of games with the Philadelphia American league club here Monday. Next Monday has been fixed for the hearing on the motion for a preliminary injunction.

LATONIA'S OPENING.

Ten thousand people thronged through the gates of fair Latonia, Monday at the opening of this popular race course, and watched the running of the Latonia Derby. The crowd was the largest in ten years and was made up of the best people of Cincinnati and suburbs. The great race was won by the outsider in the betting, Harry New, who was always as good as 6 to 1, many bets being placed at 8 to 1 which caused his odds to recede several points. Abe Frank was favorite at 9 to 5 but finished a bad last. Four horses ran the Baker & Gentry pair, Martin Burke and South Trimble being coupled in the betting.

EAST VS. WEST.

The Eastern teams got decidedly the worst of their invasion of the west, winning 22 and losing 41. Boston did the best of any of the Eastern teams, winning 6 and losing 9. Pittsburgh did the best of the western division, winning 13 and losing 3. Chicago won 13, lost 4; Cincinnati won 8, lost 7; St. Louis won 7, lost 8; Boston won 6, lost 9; Brooklyn won 6, lost 10; Philadelphia won 5, lost 11; New York won 5, lost 11.

TWO GAMES TODAY.

Morgantown, W. Va., May 27.—The Denison-West Virginia game was stopped yesterday afternoon by rain in the first inning. Both teams were in good form and playing fast ball. A double-header will be played this afternoon.

The Granville boys are ready to play fast ball this afternoon but they realize they are up against a formidable team and a victory for Denison is hardly expected.

THE STRANGER FROM CALIFORNIA

[Original.]

In 1845 a Mexican family lived near what is now Los Angeles, Cal. Don Miguel Caro, the father, was a descendant of one of the conquerors who married Aztecs and remained in the country. He had one daughter, a girl so attractive that she had many suitors, but there was an attachment from childhood between her and young Juan Estrella which kept her from being interested in any one else. When Don Miguel realized that his daughter was becoming a woman and her heart was irrevocably given to Juan, he was beside himself with anger. For Juan was without fortune, and there were others of means who would gladly marry the lovely Donna Maria. Don Miguel forbade Juan the house. The boy upon his promise not to attempt to see Maria again was permitted to bid her adieu.

"I am going away, Maria," he said, "since I cannot live near you and not see you."

"Go, Juan, make a fortune and come back. I will wait for you." "There are no fortunes to be made on this coast," he said, "and I am going northward, where the country is new and there is still less chance. Nevertheless should I ever be able to give you a home I will come back, and if you are not married."

"I shall not be married," said the girl. She was young and full of hope. All things looked possible to her.

After Juan's departure Don Miguel endeavored to persuade his daughter to select a husband from among her more well-to-do suitors, but she resolutely declined.

In some way she managed to put them off for five years. Then a stranger, Don Fernando Claverago, came up from Mexico to buy land. He was reported to be very rich. He was fifty years old and unattractive, but he proposed for Donna Maria.

Don Miguel was a great lover of Spanish traditions. He had borrowed a custom from Granada and initiated it in the new world. Every year he gave a ball, to which all the better classes for many miles around his hacienda were invited. It was for the purpose of charity. One of the ways of making money for the poor was this: The privilege of dancing with any lady could be obtained only by the man who would pay the highest price for the honor. At the ball given by Don Miguel in the winter of 1851 there was more spirited bidding for a dance with Donna Maria than any other lady. Claverago soon outstripped all other bidders, offering 500 Spanish dollars, and was about to lead the girl forth when a voice from behind the crowd cried:

"I bid a thousand dollars!" All turned to see who was the new bidder, and a man with grizzled gray hair and beard stepped forward. No one seemed to know him, and Don Miguel wondered at his presumption in coming to the ball uninvited. But since the poor were to be benefited he held his peace.

"Fifteen hundred!" said Claverago. "Ten thousand!" from the stranger. "Twenty thousand!" from Claverago.

"A hundred thousand!" cried the stranger. "This is absurd," said Claverago. "It is easy to bid such a sum, but can the money be paid?"

"I have it at the tavern," said Claverago. "That is not here," said Claverago.

All looked at Don Miguel for a decision. "Go and bring it," he said.

The stranger left the house, and at once the silence was broken by a babel of voices expressing wonder as to who he was and whence he came, the men betting as to whether he would bring the money. The tavern was not far, and the stranger soon returned. The guests opened a way before him to where Don Miguel was standing waiting with his daughter and Claverago. The stranger paused, and Don Miguel asked:

"Where is the money?" "It is coming, señor."

"Do you require assistance to carry bank bills?"

"It is gold, señor."

Two servants came through the crowd, each bearing a number of bags, which they deposited before Don Miguel. The stranger opened one of the bags and, thrusting in his hand, drew it out full of gold dust.

"What impudence!" exclaimed Claverago. "To attempt to palm off brass filings for gold!"

"You, Señor Claverago," replied Don Miguel, "who come from the far south, are not used to this kind of money, which has made its way among us since the gold discoveries in California. Perhaps the stranger is one of those men who have suddenly made money in the mines. Who are you, señor?"

The stranger pulled off a wig and beard. "I am Juan Estrella," he said. There were suppressed expressions of wonder among the guests, and Donna Maria trembled.

"I did not know what I should find here," continued Juan, looking at Maria. "Therefore I preferred not to be known till I should discover what had occurred in my absence. If your daughter is unmarried and you still are inclined to marry her to the wealthiest suitor, I am ready to show my hand with the others."

Juan was indeed one of the gold kings who sprang up at the time so suddenly in California and was worth many times the sum he gave to the poor for the privilege of dancing with his sweetheart. The charity ball was turned into a celebration of a betrothal.

STONE MASONS

HAVE NOT AS YET GONE BACK TO WORK.

One of Them Suggests a Plan of Settlement With the Contractors. Here It Is.

Several of the stone masons, who are now on strike, say that the difficulty can be easily settled and suggest the following in the words of one of them:

"The contractors want us to grade our men, but this is manifestly impossible for us to do. No one of us can say he is worth 40 cents an hour and some one else is worth only 30 cents. Let the contractors sign the scale and let them grade us, picking out men to whom they are willing to pay 40 cents an hour and those they wish to have but are not willing to give 40 cents, may apply to the union for a privilege card to work for what they can arrange with the contractors. Many of the men now on strike were making forty cents an hour, and some better wages when they were called out."

PECULIAR

Is this Strike Which Ties Up Iron Work on the Rapid Transit Tunnel.

New York, May 27.—A general strike of iron workers on the Rapid Transit Tunnel went into effect yesterday and tied up all the iron work in the subway.

The strike is one of the most peculiar on record and for the first time known the men have gone out for the benefit of a contractor.

Terry & Lench, who had a small portion of the iron work a year ago, paid their employees union wages. Other sub-contractors did not. Later Terry & Lench secured a contract for practically the whole of the iron work. Recently they abandoned the contracts on the ground that they did not pay. The contracts for the iron work were reassumed by the Rapid Transit contractors. For some reason the walking delegates took the stand that the Terry-Lench company were entitled to sympathy, and ordered the strike in order to help them out of their difficulty.

Innovation Promised.

Father of Commissioner W. F. Holton Died Early Tuesday Morning.
Funeral Thursday.

Mr. Washington Holton, father of County Commissioner W. F. Holton of this city, died at his home in Eden township Tuesday morning at 5 o'clock, after an illness of eighteen days with paralysis of the stomach and bowels, aged 82 years. Eight children, five sons and three daughters survive to mourn his death. They are W. F., John M., G. W., Stephen and David Holton, and Mrs. O. N. Lock of Delaware, Misses Ella and China Holton, who reside at home.

The funeral takes place on Thursday morning at Miles Chapel, and the interment will be made in the neighborhood cemetery. A more extended notice of this pioneer resident of Licking county will be given in a future issue of the Advocate.

It Annoyed Him.

"Hold!" cried the barnstorming tragedian, stopping in the middle of his most effective speech. Then, addressing the audience: "I cannot permit this violation of precedent to go unchallenged. If the man who threw that china egg does not confine himself to the real goods in the future, he is false to tradition and proves himself unappreciative of the unwritten laws of true dramatic sport."

Unkind.

"My father is real rude to the young men who call on me," confided Miss Keedick to Miss Tenspot. "I don't suppose your papa tries to drive young men away."

"My papa isn't rude, but he's real mean to the young men," confessed Miss Tenspot. "He borrows money of them."—Detroit Free Press.

Personal Experience.

"Do you believe in hypnotism?" asked the young man who never needs the light of time.

"Yes, indeed," answered Miss Cayenne, "where there are people who can put me to sleep simply by talking to me."—Washington Star.
